Rain yesterday afternoon at Baltimore snocked out the game scheduled for that city between the Washingtons and Orioles, and the Senators, after driving to the grounds and looking things over, returned to their hotel and then took the first train for home. Every man reported at the grounds this morning, including George Decker, but the new first baseman was the only player to don a uniform. The sun was terribly hot, and Manager Irwin concluded to let the boys have a slight rest for today's game with the Baltimores. What little playing Decker did demonstrated that he is in prime condition, but as the Senators' manager does not believe in breaking up a winning combination, the present lineup will continue unless a losing streak overtakes the club. Barry is playing wonderful ball at first, and, in fact, all the senators have been doing themselves proud Senators have been doing themselves proud the last dozen games or so.

Pitchers "Kid" Carsey and Jim Keenan will report to Manager Irwin today, and from this time on the Senatorial pitching staff can be said to be in something like first-class shape.

The game postponed from yesterday will be doubled up with the regular contest scheduled for tomorrow in Baltimore, and a double-header will be played.

scheduled for tomorrow in Baltimore, and a double-header will be played.

Today was pay day at National Park, and all the Senators naturally felt good upon receiving their allotment of cash for their past two weeks' work. Catcher Kittridge, who is pretty well fortified in this world's goods, was the only player that refused Magnate Wagner's offer of money, this thrifty and bright young man having enough money in his ciothes for the presenough money in his clothes for the pres-enough money in his clothes for the present running expenses.

Mercer is slated to do the twirling for the Senators in today's game, Kittridge being at the receiving end of the battery. Mc-Ginnity was tipped off last night as the opposing pitcher, and the Senators, in consequence, will be confronted with a stiff game.

Manager Irwin, in speaking about his trip over the minor league circuits, said this morning that he saw all the clubs in the Atlantic League play, and was not particularly struck with the efforts of any one player. Coughlin, of course, is a good one, but Manager Irwin says he is not one bit better than Atherton. Patten is a good left-handed twirler, but the price asked for his release is away up in the clouds, and his release is away up in the clouds, and the Washington club owners refuse to take chances on an unknown quantity. Patten has never twirled against major league batsmen, and he may prove the rankest kind of a fizzle when he strikes fast com-

official time. Defender finished at 4.49.48

official time, Columbia winning by one minute fifty-three seconds. As she started about two minutes astern of Defender, Columbia actually beat the old boat by three minutes and thirty-three seconds by elapsed time. Columbia's elapsed time was 3.47.55, Defender's, 3.51.28.

Instead of running home before the wind with singulars set the yachts made the instead of running home before the wind with spinnakers set the yachts made the last leg with the wind on the port bow. This was a grave disappointment to the spectators. The wind gradually died down, and when the yachts were within about a fourth of a mile of the finish the fleet gathered about the lightship and Commodore Morgan's flagship. Gracefully and noiselessly the Columbia swept over the invisible line between them and as she crossed she line between them, and as she crossed she received a royal salute. Whistles shrieked and sirens wailed for several minutes. The Columbia made no response to this thunderous demonstration. As the Defender crossed the line she also was greeted with a demonstration quite as enthusiastic diately taken in tow by their tugs and brought up the bay.

Herbert Leeds, on behalf of Mr. Iselin, referred Leeds, on behalf of Mr. Iselin, said after the race that the friends of the Columbia were very well satisfied and hoped to do better when their sails were made more trim. He said there was no accident of any kind and that the yacht would leave for New Rochelle today. Butler Duncan said he had nothing to say for the Defender. Everything had been satisfied.

It was plainly demonstrated that no matter how skillfully constructed a yacht may be, her sailing and ability to go to windward may be killed by imperfectly setting salls. In the windward work, while the wind was strong, Columbia was unable either to outfoot or outpoint the Defender, chiefly on account of the bad set of her clubtopsail, jibtopsail and forestaysail. She covered the first leg of ten miles to windward three minutes faster than the Defender, but one minute of that gain was

On the second leg the Columbia gained fifty-eight seconds. It was a reach, both yachts carrying large (not balloon) jibtop-sails. On the last leg-close hauled work in a light breeze-she lost five seconds.

Following are some expert opinions on the new yacht and her performance yester-

York Yacht Club-"I think on the whole

that the Columbia had a very good test, that the Columbia had a very good test, taking the race all through. It was a pretty race. If the wind had held from the same quarter all through it would have been a better contest. In the early part of the day the wind was south by west, then it came out from the northwest. If it had not been for this change the last log would have been run before the wind. Then spinnakers could have been used, and we should have had a somewhat better test of the Columbia's abilities."

of the Columbia's abilities."

By Howard W. Coates, Larchmont and New York Yacht Club—"Through a heavy sea the Defender seems to be better than the Columbia, but in smooth water the Columbia easily out-footed and outpointed. What the Columbia can do in a long reach is too early to say. The Columbia's sails are not set yet and her mainsail is too big for her spars. So is her forestay sail. But I hear that all this is to be remedied, and I expect the Columbia to give a much better account of herself. When she sails over our Larchmont course on Saturday it will give her a better chance to show her different capabilities."

give her a better chance to show her different capabilities."
By J. Frederic Tams, New York Yacht Club—"I do not think it was a day to bring out any definite results as to the comparative merits of the two boats because of the shifting wind. On the first leg Defender sailed Columbia a hard race. Columbia, like all new boats, will improve as she gets shaped up. Columbia will be doing well, however, if she can beat Defender by more than five minutes. Remember, five minutes The match was started early in the after noon, but it was 7 o'clock before the last shaped up. Columbia will be doing well, however, if she can beat Defender by more than five minutes. Remember, five minutes nowadays means a very great advantage. Consequently for Columbia to gain more than three minutes on Defender today shows her to be a very fast boat."

By Jordan L. Mott, jr., New York Yacht Club—"The Defender had much the better of it during the early part of the race, and my experience teaches me, after following international yacht racing for years, the the Defender was better sailed and her sails fit better than the Columbia's. I think the most creditable thing that can be said about the handling of the Columbia's crew sent up the blg jibtopsail again. Their rapidity was simply marvelous."

By Earnest Staples, yachting expert New York Yacht Club—"From what I have seen of the race I don't think that the Columbia's sails are well fitting. As to the merits of the two boats, I can hardly form an opinion, because I don't know the condition of the Defender's bottom. I don't know whether it is as smooth now as it was in 1895. The Columbia is not tuned up to racing pitch yet. She will go much faster when they get her in good shape. Looking at her on all sides, I should say she was manifestly superior to the Defender. Her superiority comes out in the lighter winds." stroke had been played. Paret caused some surprise at first by the way in which he outplayed the veteran baseline expert. In the first set he led throughout and won by 6-4. When the second set began Paret again took the lead. With 3-1 in his favor he had the score at 40-love, and missed an easy smash that would have given him a winning lead of 4-1. Stevens finally pulled out the game. In the tenth game Paret was within a single stroke of the match, and rushed to the net to volley. After a sharp exchange Stevens passed him down the right line and finally won the set by

The deciding set was even more sensational than the second. Stevens assumed the lead at once and got up to 5—3. After the lead at once and got up to 5—3. After being repeatedly within a stroke of losing the match, Paret pulled up 5-all, and then the score seesawed up, the games alternating until 7-all had been called. At this point both men were badly exhausted, but Stevens crowded on a little more steam and captured the next two games, and with them the set and match. International Cricket at Philadelphia The international cricket match between the colleges of the United States and the Canadian colleges began Wednesday on the grounds of the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia. The Canadians are able fielders, but their bowling was easy to hit. The American team is made up of players from Harvard, Haverford and the University of Pennsylvania. Percy Clark, the in-ternational player of Philadelphia, is cap-tain. The visitors went to bat first and were retired with eighty-five runs to their credit. The bowling of Sharpless was ef-fective. A heavy storm broke while the home eleven was at bat, and notwithstand-ing the bad condition of the field the Amer-icans rolled up a total of 106 runs for five cans rolled up a total of 166 runs wickets before stumps were drawn for the day.

The international cricket match between the United States and Canadian college elevens ended yesterday in a victory for the United States men by an innings and sixty

A heavy rain yesterday morning made the crease almost unfit for play, but after a liberal supply of sawdust had been strewn around the game was started and the remaining five wickets of Uncle Sam's representatives soon went down for a total of 206 for the innings. The Canadians then went to bat for their second innings with 121 runs to make to save an innings defeat. They were unable to do much with the bowling of Demotte and O'Neill, and all were retired for 61 runs, or a grand total of 146, thus being 60 runs short of the United States score.

Coolness Prevents Fire Panic. The coolness and expert precision with which firemen, aided by the police, worked prevented a fire panic among 800 people employed in the Illinois can factory, Chicago, which was partially ruined by fire yesterday. The men and women were taken from the burning six-story structure by lad-ders and fire escapes and no one was in-jured. The loss was $150,000; insurance, jured. $125,000.
